

American Oystercatcher

The American Oystercatcher is a large shorebird with striking plumage. The head is black, the back is dark brown, and the underparts are white. American Oystercatchers have bold reddish-orange beaks and a reddish-orange eye-ring. As their name implies, they feed on oysters, clams, and mussels.

See colors
and learn more

