

Bateleur

The Bateleur is a rather colorful species of eagle that is found in Africa and Arabia. Bateleurs have dark body plumage, with chestnut highlights on the mantle and tail. The shoulders are grey while the wing coverts are a tawny color. Additionally, females have tawny secondary wing feathers. In both sexes the face, beak and legs are bright red.

