

Common Kestrel

The Common Kestrel is a small bird of prey found across much of Europe and in parts of Africa and Asia. It has a mostly chestnut brown body plumage, with blackish spots or streaks. Some flight feathers are black. Males have blue-grey feathers at the cap and tail.

