

Many-colored Rush Tyrant

The Many-colored Rush Tyrant is a small species of flycatcher found in parts of South America.

This pretty little songbird has a green back, yellow underparts, and a dark blue face with a bold yellow stripe over the eye.

The bird also has a black breast band and a small red patch on the top of the head that isn't always visible.

See colors and learn more

